Evaluating Recidivism Among Drug Offenders in Florida's Residential and Non-Residential Substance Abuse Treatment Programs, 1991-1997 (ICPSR 2806)

SUMMARY: This study was undertaken to investigate the relationship, if any, between drug treatment and success or failure of drug-involved offenders on probation/community supervision. Further, the researchers sought to evaluate the outcomes of drug-involved offenders admitted to (1) secure residential substance abuse treatment (RSAT) programs, (2) non-secure residential drug treatment programs, (3) non-residential drug treatment programs, and (4) no drug treatment programs. Data were collected from administrative records provided by the Florida Department of Corrections, specifically case history records of offenders admitted to supervision in the community from July 1, 1991, through June 30, 1997. Part 1 is comprised of all cases admitted to community supervision between July 1, 1991, and June 30, 1993 (fiscal years 1991 and 1992) and treated in a secure residential drug treatment program. Part 2 is comprised of all cases admitted to community supervision from July 1, 1991, through June 30, 1995, receiving treatment in a non-secure residential drug treatment program. Part 3 contains data on offenders admitted to non-residential drug treatment programs, whose community supervision admissions were between July 1, 1991, and June 30, 1993. Part 4 contains data on offenders admitted to non-residential drug treatment programs, whose community supervision admissions were between July 1, 1993, and June 30, 1995 (fiscal years 1993 and 1994). Part 5 contains data on cases admitted to community supervision between July 1, 1991, and June 30, 1993, who did not receive drug treatment of any kind. Cases admitted to community supervision between July 1, 1993, and June 20, 1995, receiving no drug treatment are contained in Part 6. Each supervision admission record contains a history of subsequent court actions that were complete through December 31, 1997. Variables for all parts include population estimates, unemployment rates, population by age-specific categories, violent and nonviolent index offenses, per capita personal income, clearance rates, split sentence flag, primary offense disposition, primary offense felony level, current commitment years supervised, supervision type, whether current offense included a drug charge, number of prior supervision terms, number of prior commitments, reasons for failure, treatment facility code, number of drug sale/traffic offenses, outcome of supervision period, and reasons for prison intake. Demographic variables include race and gender.

UNIVERSE: Any drug-involved offender in the state of Florida admitted to community supervision between July 1, 1991, through June 30, 1997, who was admitted to: (1) secure residential drug treatment programs, (2) non-secure residential drug treatment programs, (3) non-residential drug treatment programs, or (4) no drug treatment programs during July 1, 1990, through June 30, 1994.

ICPSR CODEBOOK NOTES

1. In accordance with the National Institute of Justice Data Resources Program, data collections funded with money from the Residential Substance Abuse Treatment for State Prisoners Formula Grant Program were minimally processed by ICPSR. This means that ICPSR did not check for undocumented codes, standardize missing values, or alter variable or value labels.
2. Users should be aware that categorical variables in this data collection may contain undocumented codes. These codes were not labeled by the principal investigator or ICPSR. In addition, some continuous variables and date variables may also have high and low values that fall out of a valid range.
3. In accordance with guidelines set forth by the Florida Department of Corrections, all date and geographic variables were removed from all parts of this data collection.
4. The data in this collection are available through the NACJD Restricted Use Archive. Data in this restricted use archive are provided to the user only upon receipt of a completed, legally-binding data transfer agreement form through which the user promises to maintain the confidentiality of the data and to use the data only for research purposes. The form must be accompanied by a letter proposal or brief written proposal that explains why the restricted data are needed for the user's research project. An institutional signature is also required. The data transfer agreement form can be requested from NACJD staff or downloaded in a PDF file from the NACJD Web site at:
